Letter from the Chair

Dear Supporters,

The expression "Time Flies" is sometimes over used and so I will try to avoid it as eleven years on the Board of Directors nears an end –

As I leave the Board and the Center the years seem to have flown by –

It has been an extremely rewarding experience, as I look back on the tireless dedication of the County that has given so generously to support a much needed place for the ever growing senior population of York County to come, to grow in mind, spirit and strength.

It has been an inspiring and growing experience to have been a part in the growth from one room to a very special Center. And I have always been amazed at the genuine love and appreciation the patrons have shown.

It is said that having children makes one less selfish as an individual. I think the same is true with our seniors.

I am sure we are not always willing to learn but that never stopped any of you from teaching me. Lessons learned as we pass through life aren't taught in school and I know now that if I had to learn them from someone I'm glad it was the Seniors' of York.

By loving and understanding perhaps we shall come to understand each other.

Many Malolies (much love)
Clyde

Health Day

Elderly Abuse will be the topic of the Health Day Program at the Senior Center, Wednesday, July 31, 2002, at 12:30 p.m. A general definition of 'abuse' is - the intentional mistreatment or harm of another person. Abusers can be anyone that an older person comes in contact with (eg. caregivers, landlords, neighbors, friends), but most typically, abusers are family members of the older person. In a study by the U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, an elderly person's abuser in 58% of cases was their spouse, their son in 16% of the cases, and their daughter in 8% of the cases. Leaving an abusive situation may be more difficult for older victims. Jayne Mercer Gorham- MSW, Community Outreach Counselor with AVALON will be the guest speaker and discuss what may lead to elderly abuse and why an abuse victim may be reluctant to report such abuse. For more information and to register, call the Senior Center at 898-3807.

The Birthday Bash
